CONSTRUCT Elects New Chairman and Council at Annual AGM

CONSTRUCT Concrete Structures Group held its annual AGM on Thursday 2 May in London. The AGM saw the election of a new Chairman and Council, along with a presentation delivered by developer Lipton Rogers' Construction Director, Paul Hargreaves.

Steve Regan (Careys Civil Engineering) stepped down as Chairman after two years, and Neil Marney (Marney Construction) was elected as the new Chairman of CONSTRUCT. Neil is joined by newly elected Vice Chairman, Mark Wadsworth of Tamdown Group, and nine other members of the Council, elected from contractor, supplier and industry CONSTRUCT members.

Newly elected Chairman of CONSTRUCT, Neil Marney said:

"I am delighted to be elected as the new Chairman of CONSTRUCT. I want to ensure that we continue to promote concrete as the material of choice for building projects. I would also like to build even greater alignment with The Concrete Centre and Concrete Society and continue to develop CONSTRUCT's best practice resources so every member can benefit from the latest innovations."

The Council have set out ambitious plans for the year ahead, ensuring excellence in health & safety, and skills & training are at the forefront of CONSTRUCT's work. CONSTRUCT Day will take place in October and the Peter Campbell Lecture is also scheduled for November – providing the latest technical insight for members.

Following the election of the Council, Paul Hargreaves presented to the members on their latest project updates on their latest project in the City of London, The Pinnacle, 22 Bishopsgate. He also gave an insight to CONSTRUCT members on how Lipton Rogers chooses its supply chain – in particular concrete contractors.
